Q.69 (SPLIT E) Let me read you some statements from Democratic and Republican candidates for Congress.

The Democratic candidate supports a significant, immediate tax cut to help our economy but says we should concentrate on tax cuts for working and middle class families earning under $70,000 a year and a smaller overall tax cut than Bush's plan calls for. The Democratic candidate opposes the Bush plan because it provides huge tax cuts for those who need it least by raiding the Medicare trust fund and cutting spending for police, children's health insurance, and environmental protection.

The Republican candidate voted in favor of George W. Bush's proposed budget, including his plan to cut taxes by 1.6 trillion dollars over the next ten years. The Republican candidate says the Bush plan provides enough money to meet our long-term responsibilities and provides long-term strength for our economy by permanently cutting income tax rates across the board. Bush's plan benefits everyone who pays income taxes, with the highest percentage cuts going to those who need it most.
