Q.68 (SPLIT A) Now, let me read a pair of statements by the Democrats and Republicans about the issues in this year's elections. Regardless of how you intend to vote, I want you to tell me whether you agree more with the first statement or more with the second statement.

Democrats say, for the next 10 years, the Republican budget takes 2 trillion dollars from the Social Security trust fund for other purposes, while cutting taxes for the wealthy. Its prescription drug plan leaves 60 percent of seniors with no coverage. Instead, we should protect pensions from abuse and make retirement more secure for the future.

Republicans say, we have a broad agenda. We cut taxes and want to make them permanent and support new tax cuts this year to spur greater economic growth. With bi-partisan support, we passed a new education plan. We will meet our commitments on Social Security. And now we will move ahead with our proposals on homeland security and prescription drugs.

Q.69 (SPLIT B) Now, let me read a pair of statements by the Democrats and Republicans about the issues in this year's elections. Regardless of how you intend to vote, I want you to tell me whether you agree more with the first statement or more with the second statement.

Democrats say, we face a looming health care crisis. The Republicans promised a lot but their hands are tied by the insurance and drug company lobbyists. But we need prescription drug coverage for seniors and to restrain drug prices. We need a Patients' Bill of Rights to give consumers and doctors more of a say than the insurance companies.

Republican says, we have a broad agenda. We cut taxes and want to make them permanent and we support new tax cuts this year to spur greater economic growth. Q.70 (SPLIT A) Now, let me read a pair of statements by the Democrats and Republicans about the issues in this year's elections. Regardless of how you intend to vote, I want you to tell me whether you agree more with the first statement or more with the second statement.

Democrats say, the Republicans have squandered this opportunity for progress at home. Instead of securing Social Security for the next 75 years, they've given the wealthy gigantic tax cuts. Little money is left for prescription drugs and education. We should be using this period to invest in homeland security, education, health care, new and clean energy sources at home and a secure retirement for the future.

Republicans say, the Democrats opposed our tax cuts and now want to raise taxes again. They seem only interested in protecting old, inefficient programs. We need broad long-term tax cuts to put money back in people's pockets but also to spur our economy and encourage corporate investment. We should restrain federal spending, cut taxes and meet our commitments to defense, education, homeland security, and Social Security.

Q.71 (SPLIT B) Now, let me read a pair of statements by the Democrats and Republicans about the issues in this year's elections. Regardless of how you intend to vote, I want you to tell me whether you agree more with the first statement or more with the second statement.

Democrats say, the Republicans seem more interested in helping their special interest corporate donors than addressing our problems at home. They relax environment protections and let companies endanger pensions and hurt small stockholders. They let corporations, like Enron, pay no taxes and give their biggest tax cuts to the wealthiest. But we need a different focus: tax cuts for the middle class, investments in education, pensions protected and Social Security secure.

Republicans say, the Democrats opposed our tax cuts and now want to raise taxes again. They seem only interested in protecting old, inefficient programs. We need broad long-term tax cuts to put money back in people's pockets but also to spur our economy and encourage corporate investment.
