Q.41 (SPLIT A) Now, I'd like to read you a pair of statements from a Democrat and Republican candidate for Congress. After hearing the statements, regardless of how you plan to vote, please tell me which statement you agree with more.

The Republican says, our country faces many threats, but few threaten us as much as the breakdown of the family unit and the liberal effort to overturn laws defining marriage as the union of a man and a woman. In Congress, I will fight to lower taxes and decrease government regulation so that individual Americans can prosper, but I will never forget that we cannot prosper if we sacrifice our moral foundation.

The Democrat says, there are a lot of things that need to be changed in this country, but marriage is not one of them. I oppose gay marriage, but I'm not running for Congress to stop gay marriage. I'm running because we need to clean up the mess in Washington and focus on the issues that affect all Americans - reduce health care costs, decrease our dependence on foreign oil, and create jobs here at home.

Q.42 (SPLIT B) Now, I'd like to read you a pair of statements from a Democrat and Republican candidate for Congress. After hearing the statements, regardless of how you plan to vote, please tell me which statement you agree with more.

The Republican says, our country faces many threats, but few threaten us as much as the breakdown of the family unit and the liberal effort to overturn laws defining marriage as the union of a man and a woman. In Congress, I will fight to lower taxes and decrease government regulation so that individual Americans can prosper, but I will never forget that we cannot prosper if we sacrifice our moral foundation.

The Democrat says, politicians like to focus on issues that divide us, like gay marriage, but I say "who cares?" I don't want the government in Washington telling two consenting adults whether they can marry anymore than I want it telling people whether they can own a gun or how they should worship. Gay marriage is not my priority. My priorities are reducing health care costs, decreasing our dependence on foreign oil, and creating jobs here at home.

Q.43 Now let me read you a statement from a Democratic candidate. After the statement please tell me whether this would make you much more likely, somewhat more likely, a little more likely, no more likely, or less likely to support this candidate?

The Democrat says, Republicans have been in control of Congress for over a decade now, and they've failed to address critical issues such as rising health care costs or our dependence on foreign oil. Yet this Congress took extraordinary measures to interfere in the Terry Schiavo case, voted themselves pay raises, changed ethics rules to protect Tom DeLay, opposed stem cell research, and cut veterans' benefits. Democrats say it's time for a change in priorities and guarantee that if they are in control of Congress, they will hold votes in the first 100 days to raise the minimum wage, require Medicare to negotiate lower drug costs for seniors, and impose a windfall profits tax on oil companies to fund the development of alternative fuels.

Q.44 Now, let me read you a statement from a Republican candidate. After the statement please tell me whether this would make you much more likely, somewhat more likely, a little more likely, no more likely, or less likely to support the Republican candidate.

The Republican says, America has faced extraordinary times with our country attacked by a foreign power for the first time since World War II, which hurt our economy and our budget plans. But we are making progress. The president's tax cuts have helped families, helped create 3 million new jobs and now homeownership is at an all-time high. In our schools, test scores are improving thanks to our education reforms. In the aftermath of 9/11, we have also made the country more secure by creating the Department of Homeland Security, improving our intelligence capabilities and working vigilantly to hunt down terrorists abroad before they can attack us at home. We are not ashamed to say we helped restore respect for faith and family and restored honor and dignity to the White House.

55 The Republican tax cuts are creating jobs but there is still more to do. We understand that Americans are working hard to make ends meet and that is why we continue to push for policies that create jobs and oppose Democratic tax increases that would add a burden to working families and hurt our economy. In order to keep our economy growing, we must make the tax cuts permanent, cut unnecessary spending and pass a comprehensive energy bill that reduces our dependence on foreign oil.	35	29	13	19	2	2	64	32	31
